

If I understand correctly the FCC is considering allowing Low Power FM stations priority over current FM translator services. My family often listens to K-LOVE which is a national service heard on FM translators. We enjoy listening to K-LOVE because the music is encouraging, and never inappropriate for my children. I believe it would be a loss to our area if we no longer had a station such as K-LOVE to listen to. I hope you will take this into consideration.

Thanks,
